Para aplicação de Adm. Local é necessário definir os eventos manualmente.

The figure displays a large grid, likely representing a calendar or schedule. The grid is composed of many small squares. In the top-left corner, there are three yellow boxes containing numbers, which appear to be event markers or dates:

- A yellow box with the number "1" is located at the first column and first row.
- A second yellow box with the number "1" is located at the second column and first row.
- A third yellow box with the number "2" is located at the third column and first row.

The rest of the grid is empty, suggesting a template for defining other events manually.
